

ABRAHAM COLEMAN

FRONT-END WEB DEVELOPER

PROFILE

I graduated from the University of Northern Iowa in the spring of 2015, with a degree in Computer Science. The University of Northern Iowa introduced me to Drupal in 2013, and I've been interested in web development ever since. I was among the top of the class when the crash course in Drupal ended, and developed several different websites for the university. My Viking Pump internship kindled my love for the front end side of things, and I am now a Front-End web developer at the University of Nebraska. I love my job, and I am learning every day.

EXPERIENCE

Front-End Web Developer | University of Nebraska

2015 - Present

Responsible for the front-end web development of Academic Services and Enrollment Management digital marketing initiatives. Work closely with the Web Design Coordinator to implement site design and translate it to standards-compliant, cross-browser markup and styles. Also responsible for ensuring the Academic Services and Enrollment Management websites meet current accessibility requirements.

Web Designer/ Developer Intern | Viking Pump, Inc.

2014 - 2015

Assisted the senior web developer with the creation/maintenance of the many sites that are managed by the company. Duties included developing in ASP, HTML/CSS/JQuery, and Drupal/PHP.

Web Designer/Developer | University of Northern Iowa

2013 - 2015

Designed and developed numerous websites for various university departments. Tools used include HTML, CSS, Drupal, and a dash of jQuery. Developed sites for the Creative Life Research Center, the Gallagher-Bluedorn Performing Arts Center, and the Office of Research and Sponsored Programs.
